January 9 - Joyeux Noel

Joyeux Noel captures a rare moment of grace from one of the worst wars in the history of mankind, World War I. On Christmas Eve, 1914, as German, French, and Scottish regiments face each other from their respective trenches, a musical call-and-response turns into an impromptu cease-fire. A moving tribute to those who saw past hate and political intrigue long enough to share in their humanity. 2005.

January 23 - Sugar Cane Alley

Euzhan Palcy's warm, deeply felt film about mentorship and sacrifice is a life-affirming experience of childhood in black Martinique in the 1930's. Palcy recreates the plantation life with a keen sense of balance, offsetting the squalid conditions of workers with an authentic feeling of community and the innocence of childhood. 1984.

February 6 - The Navigator

Vincent Ward's mystical tale of a tiny 14th-century English hamlet during the devastation of the Black Plague mixes faith and fantasy in a compelling adventure. The Navigator defies genre, mixing fantasy and science fiction, religion and mysticism, historical realism and modern adventure, to create a compelling, beautiful, visually stunning leap of faith. 1988.

February 20 - Dersu Ozala

Akira Kurosawa's epic film that traces the deep and abiding bond between two men; one civilized in the usual manner, the other at home in the sub-zero Siberian woods. This is a true story, and a stunning piece of film making. Riveting and relentless in its quest to show the transcendence of human affection within the context of Russian history. 1975.

March 6 - Bonhoeffer, Agent of Grace

What is a moral person to do in a time of savage immorality? That question tormented Dietrich Bonhoeffer, a German clergyman of great distinction who actively opposed Hitler and the Nazis. His convictions cost him his life. Bonhoeffer's last years, his participation in the German resistance, and his moral struggle are dramatized in this film. 2000.
